

INTRODUCTION TO LIFE STYLE FARMS

Hi Everyone.

I am interested to find out what you guys an girls think about life style farms.

A Life Style Farm is basically your home situated far away from civilization built on a piece of land in a remote area, completely off grid and self sufficient.

Its doesnt even have to be a farm, and sometimes its not even a farming enterprize. Its usually located far from town in very a remote areas and the land size is probably enormouse.

Its called life style farms because the people that do this, go through a change of life.

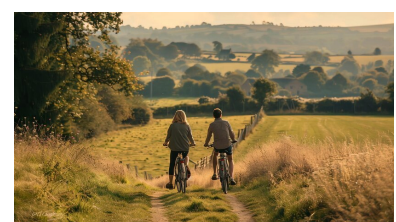

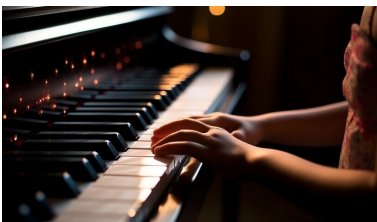

Suddenly one day you wake up in the morning and realize your values in life have changed. You want clean fesh air, a place where your family can feel safe, a place where time stands still. A place where you can once again appreciate life and the little things that are so important like spending time doing the fun stuff with the ones you love.

Imagine, going for walks, riding your bikes together, walking the dogs , picnics at the river, fishing, horse riding.

Maybe writing a book or painting a picture or even composing a piece of music.

These folks are like the early pioneers, imagination and a vision is what drives them.

They want a place where they can prosper and grow in mind body and spirit.

They want a productive life, but not a rushed one and somehow they still want to build an empire for their descendants.

There is only one place where that happens and that's in "Nature."

You might say "..but I don't even know how to farm !"

Don't worry about it.. it will come to you .. it's instinct for us humans to want to grow stuff,.. it's in our DNA. Long before there were other jobs, there was only farming !

Anyway, I am sure once you have read all about Life Style Farms you will instantly see what I am talking about and the benefits that go with it!
